

PASTOURELLE DE CLERC MILON

VINTAGE 2018

CLIMATIC CONDITIONS

The first half of 2018 was marked by heavy rainfall and severe hailstorms during the winter, followed by a much milder spring.

Cool temperatures in March were followed by a warm spell in April which favoured vegetation growth and brought the vines into flower slightly earlier than usual. This trend was confirmed from June onwards as hot and sunny weather resulted in the vine cycle being 5 days ahead of average.

In July, high humidity coupled with the summer heat made it difficult to keep the vines healthy, but constant care from our growers ensured that all the qualities of the vineyard were preserved. Fortunately, hot and dry weather then set in for three months, with temperatures sometimes reaching more than 30°C, ending the mildew attacks.

Although conditions in the first half of the year did not herald a great harvest, the record-breaking temperatures, low rainfall and relative drought that followed in the summer months rectified the situation. The grapes were small but outstandingly rich in sugar and tannins.

The advance in the vine cycle and the hot, dry summer meant that the harvest began in late August for the white grapes and early September for the red grapes.

At Château Clerc Milon, picking started with the Merlot on 17 September and ended with the Petit Verdot and Carmenère on 10 October.

The wines are intensely coloured and have excellent tannic structures. They are remarkably dense and smooth, with a rare concentration of aroma and flavour. Yields were smaller because of the drought, but the vintage can already be reckoned one of the great successes.

HARVEST

From 17 September to 10 October.

VARIETAL MIX

61% Merlot
32% Cabernet Sauvignon
7% Cabernet Franc

TASTING NOTES

The wine is an intense, crimson-hued garnet red.

The solar, expressive nose exudes blackcurrant and blackberry aromas, then with airing goes on to reveal toasted and spice notes which mingle pleasantly with succulent, ripe black fruit.

From a generously flavoured attack, the mid-palate reveals smooth, fleshy tannins combined with a close-knit body on liquorice and chocolate notes, leading into a long and balanced finish which recalls the freshness of the fruit.
