

2020 Domäne Serrig – Vogelsang Kabinett

Reviews & Ratings

Robert Parker`s Wine Advocate: “[T]he highly delicate and flinty nose shows precise and elegant fruit intertwined with the serious, flinty minerality of the gray and red slate soils of the domaine plus coolish vegetal nuances of nettles and mint. [...] A pure, lush and round yet also very mineral, beautifully playful and palate tickling Kabinett [...] that reminds me of finest Scharzhofberger Kabinetts from Egon Müller.”

97/100

Yves Beck: “The wine excels through its juicy and powerful character. [...] I have rarely tasted a Kabinett that is so lush and tonic and furthermore displays such great definition and precision.”

96/100

Vinous: “[...] This is a Kabinett in a classic sense [...], with tender notions of sweetish Mirabelle, citrus blossom and mandarin juice, encompassed by a stony, citric verve. Such lightness, such elegance, such poise, such brightness.”

95/100

James Suckling: “Very fresh and delicate nose of an entire garden of herbs, yellow grapefruit and pomelo [...], a youthful and very elegant riesling [...]. Emphatically dry and long for this theoretically off-dry category, but also finely etched. This has just reached its best youthful drinking form, but the party has only just begun!”

95/100

Markus Del Monego MW: “[...] Excellent length and depth with balanced sweetness and wonderful acidity, representing a new definition of the Kabinett style. This wine heralds a new era of Kabinett wines.”

Drinks Business: “[...] Radiant and ultra-juicy on the astonishingly vivid attack, but then with a fabulous energising release of ripples and rivulets of concentrated citrus sapidity. Quite saline on the finish, accentuating the chiselled and gently tapering contours of this sublime wine. A lovely little touch of tannin too. Incredible. I really love the purity, precision and yet amazing intensity.”
